

Ishik University Preparatory Class presented their first charcoal work. Students at the charcoal club exhibited their hand crafts. Every month, Ishik University Dean of Students presents an exhibition of students' work of art clubs. This makes students socialize and encourage them to participate in social activities.

Dean of Students discovers those students who have a potential in a specific area and promotes them to present their work. This helps the students improve themselves and be a role-model for other students. We thank preparatory school students for their great work.
