

The Second International Engineering Conference (IEC2016) was published in GEDC journal 2016. As it is known, GEDC is the abbreviation of Global Engineering Deans Council which aims at bringing deans of the engineering faculties throughout the world to be able to share the new developments faster.

The conference was held on 21-22 February, 2016 in collaboration with Erbil Polytechnic University. The conference (IEC2016) was held on the developments in Civil and Computer Engineering applications. The conference saw the convergence of educators and leaders in engineering education under the topic of the developments in the field of engineering. Furthermore, the conference also provides our graduate students a chance to establish communication with the experienced researchers in order to discuss their current work as well as to be engaged in the future research topics and new opportunities. The conference allowed for a diverse representation in the global engineering education community which is conducted in English, Kurdish and Arabic languages.

You can see the details from this link: 2nd International Engineering Conference

This slideshow requires JavaScript.